FIELD EXPOSURE

Village Stay Program :-

As part of my academic fieldwork, I stayed in a village for a week, studying rural livelihoods and community development. I gathered data through surveys, interviews, and FGDs, and conducted a case study on a woman entrepreneur under UPNRLM, assessing its impact on women's empowerment. This experience strengthened my research, data analysis, and understanding of rural development policies.

Participatory Rural Analysis :-

I participated in a Participatory Rural Appraisal (PRA) program, engaging with villagers to map resources and identify development challenges. This experience enhanced my skills in community engagement, data collection, and proposing sustainable, community-driven solutions.

Work Experience:-

I contributed to the impact assessment of the Mahakumbh Mela as part of a government project, conducting surveys and resource mapping. My work focused on data collection, stakeholder engagement, and analyzing infrastructure, crowd management, environmental impact, and economic activities. This experience enhanced my research and analytical skills, offering insights into large-scale event management and policy implementation.
