SUMMARY

I am a student of social science (History) whose main career objective is to work for sustainable growth and development. I share a keen interest in governance and public policy, human rights, gender justice, climate change issues, legal perspectives, and art and culture. I believe these are the tools that can impact society. I like to observe the power of diplomacy, both through a domestic and international perspective, as it can be a game changer in politics and create a clearer perspective regarding certain traditions and beliefs. As a student of history, I also like to deep dive into the past to understand the contemporary situations more clearly, a rule which I follow in my content creation as well. Through skills such as research and analytics, digital marketing, decision-making, and problem-solving, I hope to create a positive impact through my work.
