ACADEMIC PROJECTS

Researching on the ground about difficulties faced by local shop owners-Anthropology Research Project Novmenber2024

- We explored our surrounding areas in Yelahanka, and we decided to research a Farmer's market area.
- Here, we went around local non-branded shops, asking them for a short 10–15-minute interview to understand how their operations work and what the problems they face.
- While I explored with my team, we came across a shop that women completely ran, and we slowly understood what sort of problems they often faced, especially being in a loop of debt
- What they were facing was an inventory-keeping problem as they incurred losses on unsold items that they bought on credit due to spoilage.
- This was also accompanied by people who took items on credit from them. They were helpless as they didn't have any other option, and they risked spoilage, which led to a constant debt cycle and a liquidity crunch.

Understanding Growth and new areas of growth for quick Commerce in Bengaluru-Maths Research Project

- Led a study mapping Swiggy Instamart's dark stores, identifying four high-growth expansion areas (Yelahanka, Ullal, Sunkadakatte, Varthur) to optimize logistics and boost revenue."
- We found new high-growth areas in Bengaluru with a growing demand for residential areas and a demand for groceries and inadequate stores.
- Such areas were identified, and we also estimated the efficient serviceability of such stores about traffic as quick commerce promises to deliver within a very short period

Organizational Behaviour

December 2024

- Designed a Mock event for the university on inclusivity and diversity and planned how it should be implemented in the campus
- Our focus was on how to make the event sustainable, marketable, and implementable.
- My focus was on how to reach out to specific people and invite them to the event to speak on how the workplace is changing in today's world.

POSITIONS OF RESPONSIBILITY

- Member of the Corporate Engagement Committee, T A Pai Management Institute, Bangalore. 2024 - present

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACHIEVEMENTS

- Volunteered Global Leaders Conference, where I handled the registration desks and assisted the attendees.
- Volunteered for Project Sathi.
