About Me

I'm a first-year BA Economics (Hons.) student with a strong interest in understanding how economies work and how small ideas can create big impacts. I love exploring new concepts, asking questions, and connecting what I learn to real-world situations. I'm always looking for opportunities that challenge me and help me grow, both personally and professionally. I'm excited to gain hands-on experience through internships where I can contribute, learn, and build a strong foundation for my future career.
