ABOUT ME

Personally, I am passionate about finding meaning at the crossroads of ideas, action, and real-world impact. Though my intrigue with law, education and social equity, I have always thought that structured reasoning and thoughtful dialogue can help drive change where it really matters. Indeed, one of the strongest beliefs I hold is the fact that education is one of the most powerful democratization tools we have in our society. This has driven my active involvement in various student-led initiatives, mentorship programs and community-driven efforts.
