SUMMARY

As a second-year student pursuing a degree in Management Studies at Shiv Nadar University, I am eager to gain hands-on experience in various types of industries and practically apply my learnings. My coursework has provided me with a solid foundation in marketing principles, advertising and communication thus providing me with the skills required to interact and work in the social sector. Additionally, my passion for literature and creative writing has honed my ability to put my thoughts into words and this further contributes to my skills of communication, advertising and content writing.
