OBJECTIVE

I'm a first-year Psychology student at Delhi University with a growing interest in understanding human behavior, especially within workplace settings. I hope to eventually specialize in Organizational Psychology, as I'm fascinated by how mental health, motivation, and leadership dynamics shape professional environments. Outside of academics, photography is a big part of my life—it's taught me to observe closely, think creatively, and capture moments that often go unnoticed. I'm looking for opportunities where I can learn more about psychology in action, gain hands-on experience, and develop skills that will help me make a meaningful impact in the future.
