About Me

I am a hardworking and a diligent person . i like taking up new tasks and learning from them . The field of governance and policy has fascinated my core, from reading philosophers and their take on politics , social life, ethics , i have become quite a thinker and now is the time to put my learning into practise. i read about governance, devoplment , policy and administration during my upsc prep and have read a lot of articles about the current situation. From reading books, newspapers to meeting new places and people are a list of my hoobies. im a curious being and this oppurtunity will help boost my policy and governance related quest.
