

What still remains..

We don't talk like we used to do,
But still my thoughts find their way to you.
A laugh, a song, the way you'd smile,
I sit with the silence and stay for a while.
We drifted like stars through a midnight sky,
Shared secrets in silence, no need to try.
Your laughter still lingers, soft and kind,
A trace of your touch in the time left behind.
I have let go of most, or so I say,
But some things time can't take away.
And though we are strangers, quiet with fate,
You still unlock my phone with your birthdate..

- Shaurya

