Profile

I am a first-semester law student studying in Manipal Law School with a strong interest in constitutional law, corporate legalities, and public policy. With a foundation in critical thinking, research, and effective communication, I am eager to apply my academic learning to real-world legal contexts. I bring a disciplined approach to problem-solving and an enthusiasm for exploring diverse perspectives in legal debates. My goal is to build a career that combines rigorous legal analysis with a commitment to justice, advocacy, and social impact. I am keen to gain practical exposure through internships, research projects.
