Covering Letter

Subject : Application for an internship programme.

Respected Authority,

I, Aditi Rao, a resident of Mumbai am applying for an internship in the month of December. I am a student pursuing B.A.LL.B (Hons. In Adjudication and Justicing) at Maharashtra National Law University Nagpur (MNLU Nagpur), and am seeking my first internship of 4 weeks (out of the coming 80 weeks of internships spread over 5 years) at your esteemed organisation.

As an aspiring jurist and litigant, my aim is to use law as a tool for serving the society. In order to do that, I must first have a knowledge of the society I plan to serve. The reason for my application to your highly respected organisation, is that it works with and attempts to alleviate societal problems , especially those of underprivileged children.

I have had some prior experience in the field of social service as, from a young age I have been exposed to the same, for example, when I was a child of five, my mother took tuitions for the slum-dwelling children of some construction workers. Their struggle over things that had already come easily to me, was quite eye-opening. My father, a Chartered Accountant, who had a corporate career, left that job and began to work for NAANDI Foundation, one of the largest grassroot NGOs in India. His area of work mostly had to do with creation of livelihoods for the tribals of Araku Valley (whom I had the privilege of visiting, an educative experience), Skilling, water sanitation and programmes related to girl children (for example, the Nanhi Kali programme), telemedicine in Punjab and primary school supplementary education in Chattisgarh.

My school, Vidyaranya High School, was a learning institution founded by a lady who taught in government schools in Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh etc. There, we were made aware of the lesser privileged and were also highly encouraged to visit orphanages and NGOs alike. On some of our school trips, we were taken to NGOs like CIRHEP in Madurai and Kudali.

I myself, was a report writer for the Women Development Cell (for a period of one year) in K.J.Somaiya College of Arts and Commerce. In this committee , one of our activities was a visit to an NGO in Chembur which taught skilling to underprivileged and autistic children .

It would be a true privilege to do an internship at your respected NGO, as I would very much like to understand and serve the society through your organisation. Having two nieces and a nephew , who are quite dear to me , I am especially passionate about this cause.

Yours sincerely,

Aditi Rao

About me

- Quite passionate about Law.

- Aspire to contribute to the betterment of the society by helping to uplift the needy (as inspired by my father who left a corporate job to work in one of the largest grassroot NGOs in India and my mother, who took tuitions for the children of construction workers and the rest of my family) and to help contribute to the improvement of the current status of animals in the legal and societal spheres.

- Enjoy researching (currently working on some research papers related to law).
One of the major Goals of mine is to research provisions of law that directly relate to those in the underprivileged echelons of the society and to increase awareness regarding animal care, cruelty and rights.

- Have reasonable fluency in quite a few languages, including English, which I intend putting to use in any relevant task including (but not limited to) creation / editing of communication collateral and amateur translation.

- My schooling (which was based upon the principles of Jiddu Krishnamurthi, a famous philosopher), from the first to the tenth standard was done in an institution that was rather unconventional in its approach to the pedagogy employed by most schools today. We were taught to appreciate all that was around us, and this was done by teaching us many skills like pottery, tailoring, some basic woodworking, gardening and a basic level of the functions and household applications of electricity. We were taken to NGOs, natural parks, historical monuments, museums and there was a rather memorable visit to a medicine factory. We were taught to question things that we thought were wrong and were encouraged to speak if we ever thought something was wrong. This, along with the no examination till the eighth standard rule, (we were still prepared by the school for the exams of the ICSE board of class 10), the insistence on providing simple, nutritious meals in the lunch scheme (unlike the sometimes unhealthy fare served in many canteens), all made us think more deeply about our environment, both natural (the 60+ year old school premises were built to retain the original traces of the erstwhile forest area despite being in the heart of Hyderabad city, where there were rocks, sand, trees, insects and small animals aplenty) and the one made up of the needy.
