PROFILE

I am a creative and driven recent graduate, who pursued Political Science at Sciences Po Paris. I was also an exchange student at the University of Bristol. I have a deep interest in international policy and its impact on global governance. My academic foundation, combined with interdisciplinary research experience, has equipped me with a strong understanding of diplomacy, multilateralism, and the geopolitical forces shaping world affairs. I have had the opportunity to gain diverse work experience across political science, communication, and related fields, equipping me with adaptable skill sets.
