About Me

I'm a first-year law student eager to explore how law can help create social change. I've always enjoyed teamwork, communication, and creative problem-solving. I'm deeply interested in understanding how legal awareness and social initiatives can empower people.

An internship with a CRY would give me the opportunity to apply what I'm learning in a practical way — by contributing to meaningful causes, assisting in outreach programs, and growing as a student who wants to make a difference.

Final Note

As a first-year law student, I'm still exploring my path, but I'm clear about one thing — I want to use my skills and education to create social impact. Interning with a CRY will allow me to learn from real experiences, contribute meaningfully, and grow into a more aware and responsible law student.
