

KIRAN SAHU

PROFILE

A determined student currently pursuing Master's degree in the Department of Politics and International Studies, with an avid interest in Indian Politics, contemporary geopolitics, human rights, humanitarian law, conflict studies, subaltern and gender studies. Eager to apply academic knowledge and experience in the practical field through different opportunities while developing different skills in teamwork, problem-solving, and leadership. I also wish to work with NGOs and am interested in pursuing higher education as well as an educator, wherein I could give my substantial contribution in the area that interests me, which would help in building a holistic outlook on various national and international discourses.
