

CHILD RIGHTS AND YOU-

Internship Report

PREPARED BY- HARSHITA DIXIT

3rd year student at The Institute of Hotel Management, Mumbai

TENURE- 2ND JUNE 2025 TO 2ND JULY 2025

DEPARTMENT- VOLUNTEER ENGAGEMENT

MENTORS- MR. MANOJ THAPA AND MS. MONISHA MURALI

NATURE OF WORK- DIRECT INTERVENTION WITH CHILDREN

TABLE OF CONTENT

Sr. No	Particulars	Page No
1	Introduction	1
2	Objectives	1
3	Roles and Responsibilities	2
4	Key learnings and Experiences	2
5	Activities conducted	3
6	Challenges faced	7
7	Conclusion	7
8	Acknowledgement	8

LOCATION - GOVERNMENT PRIMARY SCHOOL, GHPS POLICE COLONY, MAGADI ROAD, BENGALURU - 560023

NO. OF INTERNS - 4 TO 9

NO OF STUDENTS- 45 TO 145

AGE GROUPS- 2ND GRADE TO 8TH GRADE

1. Introduction

I had the privilege of interning at CRY – Child Rights and You, an NGO that has pioneered advocacy for the rights and childhoods of millions of children across the nation. Having moved to Mumbai for my education, I witnessed firsthand the glaring disparities faced by children in marginalized communities. This experience deeply inspired me to contribute meaningfully to child welfare, ultimately leading me to this opportunity with CRY.

2. Objectives

The primary objectives of my internship were:

- To contribute towards child rights awareness among young children.
- To conduct interactive and engaging activities aimed at fostering creativity, learning, and awareness.
- To develop a deeper understanding of the challenges faced by government-run educational institutions.
- To leverage my personal skills in creating a positive, inclusive, and encouraging environment for the children at Government Primary School, GHPS Police Colony.

3. Roles and Responsibilities

During the internship, my key responsibilities included:

- Thoughtfully planning and conducting classroom and playground activities in collaboration with the CRY team.
- Documenting and reporting daily activities and feedback.
- Raising funds for the education of young girls by creating awareness about child rights among friends, family, and personal networks.

4. Key Learnings and Experiences

This internship provided me with invaluable personal and professional learnings:

- I had the opportunity to utilize my organizational and creative skills to reignite the excitement for learning among students returning after long vacations.
- Interacting with bright, enthusiastic students taught me values of empathy, kindness, curiosity, and valuable lessons about friendship.
- I developed a deeper understanding of the importance of grassroots-level educational initiatives and the impact small gestures can have on young lives.

5. Activities Conducted

As part of CRY's Back to School Summer Camp initiative, the interns of the Magadi School group organized a series of thoughtfully planned, engaging activities at Government Primary School, GHPS Police Colony, Bengaluru. These sessions aimed to ease students back into structured learning post-summer break, improve attendance, and foster peer bonding through playful, inclusive experiences.

1. Friendship Day Activities (14th June 2025)

To rekindle student bonding and address the social hesitations children often face after long vacations, a set of interactive activities were conducted focusing on friendship, teamwork, and kindness:

- 'Simon Says' Game: A classic ice-breaker that energized the students, improved listening skills, and encouraged participation while infusing the morning with laughter and playful interaction.
- Friendship Bracelet Making: Students braided colourful ribbons into friendship bracelets and exchanged them with peers, promoting teamwork, patience, and inclusivity as students naturally helped one another.
- Greeting Card Exchange: Children created thoughtful greeting cards decorated with drawings and messages for their friends, fostering creative expression, emotional bonding, and mutual appreciation.

These activities successfully fostered values of kindness, coordination, and friendship while encouraging students to reconnect with school in a joyful, relaxed setting.

2. International Yoga Day Celebration (21st June 2025)

To promote physical wellness and mindfulness among students, the interns organized a lively International Yoga Day celebration, blending yoga, games, and creative activities:

- Simon Says Warm-up: The day began with a movement-based Simon Says game featuring imaginative actions that gently prepared students for physical activity and built rapport.
- 'Spin the Wheel, Strike a Pose': A digital wheel revealed child-friendly yoga poses like Butterfly Pose, Warrior Pose, and Tree Pose. Students eagerly demonstrated poses while peers followed along, making yoga accessible, fun, and participative.
- Mandala Art Mindfulness Session: To encourage calmness and focus, students engaged in Mandala art, with younger children coloring printed designs and older students creating freehand patterns. This activity promoted mindfulness, introspection, and artistic expression.

Despite minor challenges like tech glitches and management of enthusiastic crowds, the day was filled with laughter, teamwork, and memorable moments, reminding everyone of the importance of simple, emotionally safe spaces for learning.

3. World Music Day Celebration (21st June 2025)

As part of the Back to School initiative, a vibrant World Music Day celebration was held to promote creativity, teamwork, and joy through music:

- Preparation: Students were asked to bring makeshift musical instruments like metal boxes, pencils, and sand-filled bottles, building excitement for the event.
- Musical Celebration: After warm-up activities, students learned about the significance of World Music Day before playing their handmade instruments along to popular songs like 'Bum Bum Bole' and 'Balegeddu'. The interns guided them in maintaining simple rhythms, creating a lively and inclusive musical atmosphere.

The activity fostered listening skills, collaboration, and confidence while celebrating the joy of shared musical experiences. Students demonstrated initiative by crafting extra instruments and generously sharing them with peers, promoting inclusivity and kindness.

4. Career Awareness and Inclusion (28th June 2025)

On the suggestions of Mr. Manoj Thapa, the interns decided to plan activities to help the students realise their future careers through creation of 'future ID cards'. On account of Blind and Deaf awareness week, we also helped the students explore topics on empathy and inclusivity.

- 'My Future ID Card': Students received ID cards of their chosen future professions and created group collages with drawings and images representing those careers. The activity encouraged early career exploration, teamwork, and creative expression.
- Inclusion Awareness Session & 'Pin the Tail' Game: Through stories of Gandhiji's Three Monkeys and Helen Keller students learned about empathy and resilience. This was followed by a blindfolded 'Pin the Tail' game, helping them experience visual challenges in a fun, interactive way while promoting awareness and teamwork.

The day beautifully combined imagination, empathy, and fun, allowing students to dream about their future while learning to understand and respect the challenges faced by others. It left them with valuable lessons in kindness, teamwork, and inclusivity.

6. Challenges Faced

While the experience was enriching, a few challenges arose during the course of the internship:

- Language Barrier: Though I am familiar with Kannada, addressing large crowds in the language posed a challenge. However, one-on-one interactions with the students were smooth, as they were highly encouraging of my attempts to converse in their native language.
- Limited Resources: An unexpected increase in student participation during each session made it difficult for us to plan and manage resources effectively.
- Time and Student Management: Managing the attention and participation of a large group of enthusiastic students proved challenging on some occasions. It became difficult to get students to settle down and focus, leading to delays and, in a few instances, the cancellation or rescheduling of planned activities. This taught us the importance of flexible planning and patience.
- Emotional Attachment: As interns and volunteers, it was challenging to navigate the growing attachment students formed with us. Their disheartened reactions at the news of our departure, including gestures like offering chocolates and requesting to stay in touch, made it difficult while having to adhere to professional boundaries.

7. Conclusion

This internship with CRY – Child Rights and You has been a deeply rewarding experience, offering me valuable lessons in empathy, social responsibility, and child welfare. It has inspired me to remain actively involved in community service initiatives and reaffirmed my commitment to advocating for equal opportunities and safe childhoods for every child.

8. Acknowledgement

I would like to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt gratitude to everyone who contributed to making my internship experience at CRY – Child Rights and You truly enriching and memorable.

First and foremost, my sincere thanks to CRY – Child Rights and You for providing me with the platform to be part of the Back to School Summer Camp initiative and for allowing me to engage with students through meaningful and joyful activities.

I am deeply grateful to our mentors, Mr. Manoj Thapa and Ms. Monisha Murali, for their continuous guidance, encouragement, and support throughout the internship. Their trust in our ideas and their valuable feedback played a crucial role in the success of each event.

I would also like to extend my gratitude to the Principal and Teachers of Government Primary School, GHPS Police Colony, Bengaluru, for their cooperation, warmth, and assistance during our visits. Their involvement made it possible for us to conduct our sessions smoothly and meaningfully.

Most importantly, I would like to thank the students of GHPS Police Colony for their enthusiasm, participation, and kindness. Their energy, creativity, and warmth made every session a joyous experience and left lasting memories that I will cherish.

Lastly, a special thank you to my fellow interns and volunteers from the Magadi School group for their teamwork, effort, and shared commitment to making a positive impact.

This internship has been a wonderful journey of learning, compassion, and community, and I remain sincerely thankful to everyone who was part of it.

