INTRODUCTION

This report outlines the tasks I completed during the course of my one-month internship at CRY (Child Rights and You). The internship focused on issues related to child rights, child labour, and the education of underprivileged girls. Through the assignments assigned to me, I had the opportunity to engage with real-world social challenges and contribute meaningfully to ongoing initiatives.

TASKS COMPLETED DURING THE INTERNSHIP

1. PowerPoint presentation on Child Rights

The first assignment was to create an informative PowerPoint presentation on child rights, where I created a series of informative slides covering a range of key topics such as who is considered a child, what child rights are, child marriage, the right to participation, the right to education, early childhood care through ICDS, child labour, and the Juvenile Justice System. This presentation aimed to raise awareness about the rights of children and the need to safeguard them at every stage of life.

1. Padlet entries for World Day against Child Labour (12 June)

The second assignment involved making 10 original entries on a Padlet to mark the World Day against Child Labour, observed on 12th June. The theme focused on envisioning a safe, joyful, and labour-free childhood. While I personally created one entry, I facilitated the remaining contributions by reaching out to my friends and family members who are willing to support the initiative. Through this collaborative effort, I was able to ensure meaningful engagement with the theme and successfully fulfilled the assignment requirements.

2. Fundraising for the continuation of education of underprivileged girls

The third assignment was a fundraising task aimed at supporting the continuation of education of underprivileged girls. As a part of this assignment, I was assigned a fundraising goal of ₹3000, which I successfully achieved. To raise the amount, I designed and printed an information sheet that explained the purpose of the campaign, the objectives of CRY, and the importance of contributing to the cause. I also prepared a table to record the name and contribution amount of each donor. I visited potential donors in person and explained the campaign to them directly, who contributed in person. In addition, I shared the campaign details and CRY's initiatives on social media with friends and explained the cause to them virtually, who chose to contribute online. The total amount was collected through both offline and online efforts and was finally submitted on the Ketto platform on 7 June, 2025, thereby completing the task successfully. This task gave me insight into the importance of community support and the real-world impact of collective action. It also taught me how to effectively communicate a social cause and encourage others to contribute to a meaningful initiative.

CONCLUSION

This internship allowed me to apply my skills in a practical setting and participate in socially impactful work, while helping me to gain valuable and enriching experience. Each assignment deepened my understanding of key issues and helped me develop essential abilities like research, communication, coordination, and outreach.
