

Internship Summary Report

Name: Vaishnavi Jha

Organization: CRY- Child Rights & You

Duration: June – July 2025

Role: Peer Mentor

Introduction

This internship provided a valuable opportunity to work with CRY in promoting child rights and supporting field-level initiatives. The experience combined backend operational work with school-based engagement. Over six weeks, I contributed to intern coordination, data tracking, and child-focused creative sessions in government schools. The role helped me develop a better understanding of how NGOs plan, monitor, and implement grassroots programs that support children's education and emotional well-being.

Key Responsibilities

1. Peer Mentorship and Coordination

I was given the responsibility of mentoring a group of around 40 under-18 interns. My work involved:

- Maintaining attendance records
- Tracking assignment submissions
- Following up regularly for timely completion of tasks

All data was organized in Excel sheets, which were reviewed weekly. I ensured that each intern was guided, reminded, and supported throughout the process.

2. Fundraising Management

As part of the fundraising initiative, each peer mentor group was assigned a target of ₹80,000. I was responsible for:

- Creating and organizing my group on Ketto
- Monitoring daily fundraising progress
- Recording contributions
- Following up with interns to meet individual targets

This required daily updates and maintaining well-structured fundraising data.

3. Field Visits and School Engagement

Several visits were made to local government schools where we conducted sessions with students in Classes 3 and 4. The goal was to provide emotional and creative support through:

- Origami flower and heart-making

- Gratitude card-writing
- Finger painting and colouring
- Physical activities like kho-kho, running races, and memory games
- Expression games like “Career Charades” and “Head, Shoulders, Knees, and Toes”

These sessions helped children engage in learning through fun, improve emotional expression, and build confidence.

4. Data Management and Reporting

I maintained structured records of mentee performance, attendance, and fundraising. All tasks were documented in Google Sheets, including:

- Daily and weekly performance updates
- Certificate eligibility tracking
- Final evaluation sheets for all mentees

This documentation helped in reviewing overall group performance and preparing final submissions.

Learning Outcomes

Through this internship, I developed:

- Stronger leadership and team management skills
- Better understanding of NGO processes and planning
- Practical knowledge of using Excel for tracking and evaluation
- Patience and communication skills through consistent follow-ups
- Sensitivity toward children's developmental needs

Conclusion

This internship was a balanced and enriching experience. The mix of field visits and backend responsibilities gave me exposure to both the emotional and operational sides of social work. It made me more responsible, aware, and confident in handling real-world tasks while contributing to meaningful causes.
